Massawepie Scout Camps

2019 High Adventure PROVO Trek Schedule

Where can we go?

Every week provisional scouts will join Scouts from many different Scout Unit, who are looking for high adventure experience. Each session will be an exclusive Trek for that group. Which means that trek, will not be available for other groups to use. Treks will begin on Sunday after lunch and conclude Saturday after breakfast with the first and last night's stay in base camp.

Rating System:

Treks are rated on their degree of difficulty (physical endurance and outdoor skills needed).

Ratings: 1 = easy to 10 = very difficult

Similarly, each trek is assigned a wilderness rating coinciding with human activities encountered along the way rather than physical landscape.

Ratings: 1 = see other groups and signs of civilization to 10 = Total Solitude

Session#1:

Massawepie's Own Trek (Canoeing & Backpacking)

Difficulty: 2-4 Wilderness: 7 Max Group Size: 11

Ideal for groups new to wilderness camping, this short mileage trek is contained on the nearly 4000 acres of Massawepie Scout Camps property. Explore the famous Massawepie Mire, navigate the trail network or fish and enjoy the greatest outdoors a one of our many undeveloped lakes or ponds. Set up camp on a different body of water each night or opt to stay overnight on a nearby mountain campsite.

Session #2:

Ebenezer Emmons (Backpacking only)

Difficulty: 8-9 Wilderness: 8-9 Max Group Size: 7

Named after the famed geologist who led a survey party on the first known ascent of Mt Marcy in 1837, the Ebenezer Emmons trek travels through some of the most spectacular locations in the mountains. For the most determined trek groups only, the trek leads to the summit of Mt Emmons, the most remote peak in the Seward Range. Backpack to Duck Hole and camp in ideal conditions. Continue to the mouth of Indian Pass to another magnificent campsite. Take a dip in the pool below Rocky Falls and finish up with an easy jaunt to the lodge.

Session#3:

Paul Smith (Canoeing Only)

Difficulty: 5-8 Wilderness: 6 Max Group Size: 7

Cross a variety of large lakes and small ponds in the trek that takes you into the St. Regis canoe area. Enjoy natural, shore-side campsites, clear-water swimming and test your hand at brook trout fishing in the excellent, high quality wilderness adventure.

Session #4:

High Peaks/St. Regis Sampler (Canoeing & Backpacking)

Difficulty: 4-8 Wilderness: 3 Max Group Size: 7

Combine the best of all worlds in this customizable trek. Canoeing, backpacking, day hiking, bushwhacking, and High Peaks climbing may be combined for a unique trek experience tailored to your group's interests and skill level. Follow the two-and-a-half-day mountain excursion with another two and a half day canoeing trough the historic St. Regis area.

Session #5:

Cranberry 50 (Canoeing & Backpacking)

Difficulty: 4-7 Wilderness: 5-7 Max Group Size: 11

This trek is split into two components: hiking the remote trails of Cranberry Lake wild forest and paddling through the water of Cranberry Lake itself. One of the largest lakes in the Adirondacks, Cranberry Lake offers several deep bays and miles of forested shorelines ripe for exploring. Take a side trip hike to Cat Mountain, High Falls or one of several other trails. Adjusted to the individual trek group, the hiking trails may cover as few as 10 miles or as many as 30.

Session #6:

Oswegatchie River Trek (Canoeing & Backpacking)

Difficulty: 8-9 Wilderness: 8 Max Group Size: 7

Begin this trek with a scenic half day paddle to the west end of Low's Lake where the group begins a long canoe carry to the headwaters of the Oswegatchie River. The two-and-a-half-mile carry may be done in one day or as an overnight venture. While canoeing toward Cranberry Lake, survey several beaver dams, waterfalls and rapids in some of the most remote areas of the Adirondacks. This 30-mile trek may be attempted by experienced and determined groups.
